Israeli police repel rock-throwing mob

By The Associated Press
Jerusalem riot police today beat back a stone-throwing mob of Jews who tried to take reprisals on Arabs following a terrorist bomb that killed 13 persons.
The police, backed up by armed troops, turned a water cannon on the crowd of several hundred who tried to invade a row of Arab watermelon stands on the old border dividing east and west Jerusalem.
The mob smashed several police car windows, and a few policemen received bruises and cuts from the hail of rocks. There was no immediate word on arrests.

The riot came after police announced that an Israeli family of three — a father, mother and 9-year-old daughter — were killed in the bomb explosion Friday.
In Beirut, Premier Rashid Karami sought to reassure foreign businessmen that security reigns in all parts of Lebanon following three separate bouts of street fighting over the last few months that left 900 dead.
Israel has accused the United Nations of encouraging Palestinian guerrilla raids such as the latest one on Jerusalem's bustling Jaffa Road.
A Foreign Ministry communique said the terrorists who set off explosives Friday in front of a toy store "have been adopted...by the various organizations of the United Nations, whose original mission, it will be recalled, was to...support humanity."
The communique said U.N. resolutions supporting Palestinian claims to a national homeland have been cited by the guerrillas as international approval of sabotage acts in Israel.
The Israeli state radio said two children were among the Israelis killed when the explosives, concealed in a refrigerator, went off on the Holy City's busiest road.

Two American teenagers from Richmond, Va., on a religious tour of the Holy Land, suffered minor wounds in the bombing, police said.
Police said they were holding about 100 Arabs in connection with the blast.
A spokesman said police artists had come up with portraits of two of the men believed responsible for the bombing. The Palestine guerrilla command in Beirut has said the Palestinian movement was responsible, but it did not say which group planted the bomb.
In Cairo, the semi-official newspaper Al Ahram said today the Jerusalem blast indicates "the hopes of Israel and her friends in achieving a separate settlement are false ones which will inevitably reach a dead end."
However, Al Ahram said the bombing does not mean a setback to current peace efforts toward a partial Sinai settlement with Egypt.
In Beirut, Lebanese officials said that despite massive searches a U.S. Army colonel who was dragged out of a taxi Sunday during the height of street fighting in the capital is still missing.

Only one shooting incident was reported Friday in Beirut. Five armed men were reported killed and several wounded by security forces.
Heavily armed security convoys patrolled downtown Beirut and its suburbs, and technicians worked overtime to restore electricity, telephones and water to the hardest hit districts.
In Cairo, 15 members of an Egyptian Communist organization were arrested on charges of trying to overthrow President Anwar Sadat's government, police sources said. They said the suspects were accused of attempting subversive activities in industrial districts of Cairo and the Nile Delta town of Mihala Kobra.
Five Egyptians were killed and six others injured Friday when a mine exploded while they were swimming in the Mediterranean near Port Said, authorities said today. Witnesses said the mine went off near the shore in front of a former hotel site, about 1,900 feet from the entrance to the Suez Canal.
Authorities said Egyptian naval and demolition experts have launched a widescale search for what officials said were 360 mines not yet located since the October 1973 Middle East war.

Hangs self in Ogle Co. Jail

Gerald Lee Palmer, also known by the aliases of Steven Williams and David Lee Aterton, last known address Aurora, was discovered hanging in his cell this morning at 5:15 a.m. at the Ogle County jail.
Palmer, 23, was arrested on auto theft charges by Rochelle Police April 12 and transported to the jail. He was also being held for Winnebago authorities on a warrant charging him with violation of probation.
Sheriff Jerry Brooks contacted Lee County Sheriff Ray Nehring and Dixon Police Chief Earl Kelchner to have an independent investigation conducted into the circumstances of Palmer's death.
Detective Ed Blake, Lee County Sheriff's Department, and Detective Sergeant Larry Hagen, Dixon Police Department, traveled to Ogle County and conducted the investigation.
Although the investigation is not completed, the investigators have ruled out any foul play and had determined that Palmer was last known to be alive at 3 a.m., from interviews with a fellow inmate and jail correctional officers, to whom Palmer had been talking Friday night.
The investigators said jail correctional officers had made periodic patrol checks of the inmates and Palmer was alive during the last check prior to his being discovered by a fellow inmate.
The investigators said Palmer had removed his jail coveralls and used them to hang himself from the jail bars.

Why Declaration of Independence

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

Our immortal Declaration of Independence was prepared for reasons too seldom recalled—the tragic price we pay for our dangerous lack of knowledge of American history.

First, it was prepared to convince and inspire Gen. George Washington's soldiers to accept a new objective: independence.

The means of the Continental Congress were small and few. It requested this declaration instead of the objective of merely driving out the hired Hessian troops and to restore to the colonials their rights as British subjects.

Washington was being defeated and each wave of disillusionment and doubt washed higher and took longer to subside.

Second, to convince the colonists in the 13 colonies to support the Resolution of Independence instead of merely their rights as loyal subjects of the British sovereign.

Third, to convince European nations that they should give us the indispensable military and other aid with which to win our independence.

Virginian Richard Henry Lee introduced at the Continental Congress on June 7, 1776, a Resolution for Independence proposed by the Virginia colony. The Congress appointed a Committee of Five to prepare it. It chose Benjamin Franklin, 70; Roger Sherman, 55; John Adams, 42; Thomas Jefferson, 33; and my ancestor Robert R. Livingston, 30.

Jefferson had written his courageous "Summary View of the Rights of British Subjects." It had won for him a price on his head, dead or alive.

The Committee of Five gave the drafting of the Declaration to him. And today at Jefferson's beloved "Monticello" you can see a remarkably inventive candle-lit desk of Jefferson's own design on which he wrote parts of it.

The powerful pen of this robust genius was joined with the sword of the colonists to win our independence.

Jefferson—a man with an oarsman's back, 6 feet 2 inches tall, straight and true as the spire of the Washington Monument, large-boned, slim, slightly red-headed—had a noble presence that instantly marked him as born to be a leader.

In the Declaration, Jefferson was writing of a river. The river was freedom and life; it flowed into the ocean, and the ocean was America.

Jefferson wrote his resentments in words furious and implacable. He called British King George III and his advisers a nest of scoundrels. He cited 27 wrongs perpetuated by the king and his words—and the memory of what we did in their name—are a living part of the literature of liberty throughout the world.

In the second and third paragraphs we find the humanitarian ideal. But Jefferson knew that ideals must be understood before they can be accepted. We achieve our ideals only in the measure that we understand them.

Of the 56 patriots who signed the Declaration, seven were Virginians, exceeded only by Pennsylvania's nine, and said Jefferson, "no hand trembled in affixing its signature."

General Washington gathered his officers and Continental troops in front of New York City's City Hall to read the Declaration to them. He was instigating a series of holding actions in a battle already lost, but the new objective—Independence—transformed these men. Soon this new objective was cheered on the farms and in the towns in every colony.

The Declaration's third objective was equally successful. It brought us the services of Lafayette and Rochambeau of France, Gallatin of Switzerland, Steuben of Germany, Pulaski and Kosciuszko of Poland and others whose aid made it possible for the colonies to win the surrender of the mightiest power in the world.

Jefferson died on the fourth of July, 1826, age 83. It was exactly the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence's adoption and Jefferson's last words were "This is the fourth?" Moreover, three of our first five Presidents—Jefferson, John Adams, James Monroe—died on the fourth of July.

The hollow, reverberating boom of a cannon fired below his "Monticello" home in Charlottesville, Va., signaled his passing. Jefferson had said "All my dreams end where I hope my days will end, at Monticello." They did. And on the fourth of July, and forever, how richly this immortal American deserves to rest in peace at his beloved "Monticello."

Public employees on both sides of bargaining table

Recent public sector union activities confirm that governmental unionists and teacher groups are prepared to exert concerted political action, as well as strike threats and all other feasible means to increase their influence at the bargaining table.

In New York City, for example, results of local school board elections indicate that candidates supported by the powerful United Federation of Teachers gained a majority of seats on at least 21 of the 32 local boards. Alber Shanker, UFT president, estimated the union's victory at two-thirds of the 288 board seats.

Admitting that the union had invested more than $100,000 in the local campaign, Shanker declared the election results "a victory for the kinds of people we want to see on community school boards." Of course, it will be those very same school board members who will be negotiating with the teacher unions.

Such political activism is not restricted to local school board elections. The National Education Association, for example, claims to have helped elect 250 of the 310 congressional candidates it endorsed in 1974. The national organization reportedly made direct contributions of $212,000, although probably 10 times that much was given by state affiliates, as well as valuable manpower, technology, polling and public relations skills.

James A. Harris, NEA president, told the 1974 convention that "Every politician in this country has heard the term 'teacher power.' They understand it to be a necessary ingredient of a successful campaign and this will be even more true in the future."

This type of overt political activism on the part of the public sector unions is increasingly apparent throughout the nation in state and local elections. Where elected government officials are also the employers, public employee unions have a tremendous political self-interest.

One union official noted: "A public employee union that doesn't recognize that political action is a corollary to collective bargaining is simply out of touch."

Public sector unions are involved in political activity every time they sit down at the bargaining table to negotiate an agreement.

Unlike the private sector, where economics are the basis for bargaining, public sector unions may negotiate their hefty pay increases and fringe benefits through threats of stoppage of vital services, action at the polls, or "end runs" to higher local or state officials who are "more responsive."

Elected officials, fearing the loss of political support of those who might be inconvenienced by a disruption of essential municipal services, may accede to unjustified union demands. Moreover, if those demands are not met, public officials stand to lose a major source of campaign funds—public union's political "war chests"—as well as the votes of public employees whom officials may view as their constituents.

A crucial difference between collective bargaining in the public and private sectors was demonstrated in a recent confrontation between New York City's Mayor Abraham Beame and leaders of five major municipal employee unions.

Mayor Beame's desperate attempt to balance next year's budget by proposing a four-day workweek for city employees, and his plea to forgo a scheduled six percent pay hike, were summarily rejected by the public unions. The message was clear.

While public sector unions want to bargain for increased wages and benefits, they refuse to share in the belt-tightening that a public (or private) employer must undertake when revenues decline. To obtain money to meet the decreased income, government must then turn to new or increased taxes to placate its employees.

One commentator has noted that this enables New York's unionized employees to retain the "full proceeds of their past extortions" at the expense of the taxpayers.

"While the average family in New York City has seen its income drop in the last six years," remarked one city official, "the salary of the municipal employee has soared by 44 percent." It is not merely coincidence that the largest increases have been in mayoral election years—15.73 percent in 1965 and 19.37 percent in 1969.

Victor Gotbaum, chairman of New York's Municipal Labor Committee, an umbrella labor organization representing approximately 200,000 city employees, has candidly suggested that perhaps the unions would "have to give up some of the crap they got at the bargaining tables. They never should have got some of it."

The leaders of other municipal unions were outraged, forcing Gotbaum to retreat from his frank earlier position. An agitated Mayor Beame warned against "being dominated by the will of a handful of people who have never stood for election before the citizenry, but nevertheless, seek to dictate our destiny . . ."

Having discovered the lucrative potential of political pressure tactics, public employee unions are the fastest growing and are among the best organized unions in the country. Already a potent force in local and state politics, the ultimate goal of public unionists is to push through Congress a federal labor law requiring compulsory unionism, including a protected right to strike, for public employees.

Apparently, union forces are awaiting the outcome of two Supreme Court cases testing the constitutionality of the 1974 Fair Labor Standards Act amendments extending minimum wage and overtime pay requirements to state and municipal employees. Although argued in April, these cases have been set for reargument—possibly in light of the Court's recent decision upholding the application of the 1971 Federal wage freeze to state and local government employees.

The political clout of public employee unions puts the elected official in the compromising position of negotiating salary increases with those on whom he is dependent for political survival. It's as if the officers of a corporation were elected by their assembly-line workers, represented by the union with whom they had to negotiate wage agreements.

If public employees get this power, one might ultimately wonder who will protect the public's interest at the bargaining table?

Things Dixon Talked About

10 YEARS AGO

After 91 days of studying, investigating, holding public meetings, and hearing the pros and cons, the Dixon City Council this morning passed an ordinance granting a cable television franchise for Dixon.

50 YEARS AGO

Fourteen violators of the new emergency fireworks ordinance who sought to stage their celebrations within the fire limits or on the streets, by throwing fireworks at passing cars, were taken in custody and all paid fines of $3 and costs each.

Saturday, the Fourth of July, was an ideal day in every respect and thousands swarmed the Assembly Park for the old-fashioned celebration. It was without a doubt the largest crowd that has ever attended a Fourth of July celebration in Dixon and starting early in the morning there was a steady stream of cars and pedestrians to the park throughout the entire day.

To the Editor:

Several weeks ago Gene Hardiek of the Blackhawk Area Conservation and Resource Development Project approached me about a "people project." At the time, I was impressed with Mr. Hardiek's enthusiasm for the fire hydrant painting project he proposed to me. Since our first meeting, I've nearly been overwhelmed by the support shown for this type of project.

We would like to thank Hardees, Prince Castle's, United Lunch, Kentucky Fried Chicken, Parkway, Dixon Evening Telegraph, the Street Department, City Council, City Fire Department, Rural Fire Department and various gas stations in town, along with Mayor Naylor for their assistance and contributions to the project. Additionally, I would especially like to thank the unknown gentleman who brought cookies to help the kids restore their energy cells.

Lee County is fortunate to have so many fine young people who are willing to paint for free in the 90-degree-plus weather we've experienced the past two weeks. The people who deserve the credit for making this "people project" a success are the hydrant painters: Janet Willey, Connie Ruppert, Erin Flynn, Peggy Slegger, Cathy Kennedy, Pam Nelson, Penny Raymond, Mary Sanders, Erna Clapper, Andrea Trent, Steve Ashford, Rich Ashford, Brenda Linboom, Sally Imfeld, Karla Knack, Patricia Sitter, Ann Fane, Russell Murray, Shawn Stephens,

As in most of life, all that has happened since the painting began has not been joyful. While the kids were working to beautify their community, on June 25 someone stole a bike belonging to Janet Willey that was parked in front of City Hall. Hopefully, whoever decided they needed the bike more than Janet will return the bike to City Hall as a fitting reward for its owner's efforts.

Len Chandler, Kevin Kecker, Pat Hicks, Joni Naylor and John Jenkins have supervised, sweat with, and worked through the hassles of the entire project.

Sincerely,
Alan Gene Hardersen
Director, Lee County
Youth Service Bureau

Independence, not interdependence

By JOHN F. McMANUS

BELMONT, Mass.—One hundred and ninety-nine years ago, our founding fathers told King George that they had tolerated enough of his brand of oppression. Declaring themselves free of British rule, and later backing up their resolve with muscle and blood, the Americans of 1776 wrote a new and marvelous chapter in the history of mankind.

The most elementary premise of their Declaration of independence from slavery and despotism is the "self-evident" truth that "all men . . . are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights." In other words, there is a God and man's basic rights come from Him, and no one else. It clearly follows that if such rights as life, liberty, and property cannot be granted by government, then government cannot take them away. A more solid foundation for freedom would be impossible to find.

The Declaration called attention to another "self-evident" truth: "That to secure these Rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the Governed." Speaking plainly, this means that government is the servant of the governed, not their master; that government owes its very existence to the men who created it; and that government's function is to safeguard and protect the God-given rights of individuals.

Strange as it may seem to many who will read these lines today, these basic principles of Americanism had never previously formed the foundation of a nation. Our nation—this union of independent and sovereign states—was and is unique.

Such concepts as are found in the Declaration do not fare well in today's America, however. Ravenous big government is steadily devouring individual rights, and the very crimes of King George—springing now from within our nation—have returned like an ancient plague. The precious heritage sealed for us at great cost in the early days of our independence finds fewer and fewer defenders and is understood by a mere handful of our citizens.

Only a few years ago, former Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy each chose the Fourth of July to call for a new declaration of interdependence. That theme, carried along by Presidents Johnson and Nixon, was recently echoed once more by President Ford. Addressing a commencement audience at the University of Pennsylvania in May, he stated that the time had come "to write a declaration of interdependence, among ourselves and all people." Then, on May 27, at a conference of oil-consuming nations in Paris, Secretary of State Kissinger called for the same "interdependence" as a means to solve the contrived energy crisis.

The calls for "interdependence" come from many quarters. Yet important questions remain unanswered. With whom or what are we to be interdependent? Are we to sacrifice the Declaration's recognition of God-given rights to the Godless United Nations? Might present leaders of the United States suggest self-destructing "interdependence" with Communist tyrannies or Socialist dictatorships? Must we abandon our precious heritage in order to satisfy energy needs which could easily be met but for government interference?

We offer a resounding "No!" to the consequences of interdependence. Let us rather reaffirm our Declaration of Independence and pull away from the errors, crimes and deficiencies of other governments. Let America chart her own course in the future as she has done in the past, a course that has earned the well-deserved respect and admiration of everyone.

The leaders of this great nation seem determined to sacrifice our magnificent Declaration on an unholy altar. If they are not stopped, interdependence will indeed be our lot. But it can only be interdependence with serfdom and tyranny.

Couple exchange marriage vows

MR. AND MRS. JOSE WILSON PERERIA DaROSA
South picks right contract

By Oswald & James Jacoby
When you play that a reverse bid by opener is a one-round force, you can get to be "Reverse happy."

Thus, South hoped to get to notrump and decided to bid his three-card heart suit with that aim in mind. We assume that if North had raised hearts, South

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
You still have to be extra-careful in any financial transactions today, or you're not likely to get full value.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Don't let indecisiveness about your plans today affect companions who expect to share an activity.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
A friend is going to be disappointed when she learns you've revealed what she told you in confidence to a third party.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
You'll have to make an extra effort today not to overindulge in the good things life has to offer. If discipline goes by the boards, so will your waistline.

To gain admiration from others today you may expand a bit more than you should about a recent accomplishment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
You're overly sensitive today in dealing with friends. Be careful not to expect more than they're capable of giving.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Be sure that one you're involved with in an interest is not looking to you and your resources to sponsor the venture single-handed.

Your drive and persistence will desert you today when you run into resistance you could normally handle. Keep plugging.

MOLINE — Faith Lutheran Church, Moline, was the setting of recent marriage vows for Miss Deborah K. Weller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Jones, Compton, and Jose Wilson Pereria DaRosa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cipriano Pereria DaRosa, Brazil, South America. Honorary parents for the groom in absence of his parents were Mr. and Mrs. Heniz Folt, Moline.

The Rev. Philp Nelson conducted the ceremony and Mrs. Carol Hurbert served as organist and Mrs. Diane Slininger, sister of the bride, was vocalist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of white brocade knit. The gown was styled with long puffed sleeves with the traditional train and lace. She also wore a waist-length veil of lace net. As the bride was escorted to the altar, she carried a bouquet of blue carnations and white daisies.

Miss Joyce Hood, Rock Island, was the bride's maid of honor. She was attired in a floor-length blue gown with a white printed design, and wore a white picture hat trimmed in blue ribbons.

Frank Morelli, Moline, served as the best man and ushers for the ceremony were Dennis Weiler, Compton, and Danny Slininger, Moline.

Miss Linda Slininger served the bridal couple as flower girl and was attired in along blue dress with a white printed daisy design. She also wore a white picture hat trimmed with blue ribbons. Frank Morelli Jr. served as ring bearer and wore a dark blue suit while carrying a white satin pillow.

Following the ceremony, a buffet style reception was held in the church parlor. The cake and decorations were made by the bride's mother.

Following a wedding trip to California, Las Vegas, Nev. and Salt Lake City, Utah, the couple will reside in Moline.

The bride attended business college at the Moline Institute of Commerce and is presently employed at Seaford Clothing as a payroll clerk.

The bridegroom, who attended school in Brazil, is a sewing machine mechanic and is also employed at Seaford Clothing.

Dear Ann

by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I write this out of genuine concern for today's youth.

Parents, have you found your son or daughter, grade school and up —

Lying — but overlooked it? Cheating — felt a little disappointed?

Swearing — got a little upset? Smoking — got quite upset? Stealing — gave a lecture? Drinking — grounded him for a week?

O.K., Mom and Dad, just who set the examples for these children? Was it those bad kids at school or you in your own home?

What you DO speaks louder than what you SAY! If the youth of today are going to get straightened out, the adult generation had better start setting standards kids can look up to.

What images do your children have of you? Puffing on a cigaret, sitting around before dinner with martinis, cheating on your income tax, telling a few small lies, swearing at them and each other? Not a very pretty picture, is it?

What is life like at YOUR house? — Boca Raton

Dear Boca: I've said it before, but I'll say it again — children need models more than they need critics. When parents don't set good examples it ill becomes them to ask, "Where did we fail?"

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a daughter-in-law wrote and complained that her Sunday dinner plans were upset frequently because her mother-in-law insisted on waiting until Sunday morning to invite her family over for dinner.

Your answer was good, but I believe there's another angle. I speak for mothers as well as mothers-in-law. We would love to be invited to your place for Sunday dinner once in a while. We've been cooking for you and your family for many years. How about a break, girls? Maybe that late invitation is because your mother-in-law thinks, "Maybe THIS will be the week she'll invite me!" — Sore Bunions

Dear Bun: It's amazing how many readers came up with that same reasoning! You may have something there, doll.

Dear Ann Landers: Thank you for printing the letter from the person who received a corneal transplant through an eye bank. I'm the executive secretary of the Lions Eye Bank at the University of Washington in Seattle. Your letter stirred a great deal of interest in the donation of eyes and we are very grateful.

Did you know that in 1925 Helen Keller challenged the Lions Service Clubs all over the world to become her "Knights of Blindness"? Since that time, the Lions have worked on projects such as buying glasses for children, supporting medical research for eye disease and paying for eye operations for the indigent.

There are about 55 eye banks in the U.S. and the Lions support nearly 75 per cent of them. Since the Seattle Eye Bank started in July '69, we have supplied 587 eyes for corneal transplants.

Thank you for making people aware of this important project. — Donna Oiland

Dear Donna: Bless you for giving me the opportunity to give the Lions their just due. They are beautiful people.

Freedom Train stop in Aurora is detailed

When the 26-car American Freedom Train with its giant Southern Pacific locomotive comes steaming into Aurora for two days of displays it will go directly to the Burlington-Northern Railroad shop yards on North Broadway in Aurora.

There it will be broken up into display sections so visitors may tour the 10 exhibit cars, the free glass-sided display cars and the huge 850,000-pound red, white and blue locomotive and its two tenders with a minimum of walking.

The train with its staff of 135 will be on display in Aurora for two days Aug. 12 and 13, from 8 a.m. until 10 p.m. The train is expected to arrive in Aurora late Aug. 11, to be ready for the 8 a.m. opening.

The Burlington-Northern shop yards is a different site from originally announced but here the train and its visitors will have more than 100 years of Burlington history surrounding them, according to W. L. "Les" McCullough. McCullough is executive chairman of the Aurora Bicentennial Commission, sponsor of the Freedom Train.

The exhibit cars of the train are filled with some 750 priceless documents and artifacts related to American history, collected from museums and private collections all over the country.

The display part of the train includes two glass-enclosed cars which visitors may study closely from trackside without charge; the other 10 cars permit ticket holders to go through a moving walkway. Each of these cars has its own sound system, with special stories and sound effects which visitors hear through individually held transistor "wands."

The 10 cars will cover the span of American history from the fight for independence up through the moon flights, with separate cars given over to city and farm life, the story of American resources, sports, the arts, and conflict and resolution.

Admission to the train will be $2 for adults and $1 for children under 12 and for senior citizens. Advance tickets will be on sale in Aurora in mid-July and mail orders may be sent, with check and stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Aurora Bicentennial Commission, 23 E. Downer Place, Aurora, Ill. 60506.

Inquiries may be made to the Commission by calling (312) 859-1776.

Harry Clown leads Princess, a llama, in the ring of the Mid America Circus which will give two performances Monday at Grant City.

Circus Monday at Grant City Plaza

An old clown bit of doggerel from circuses of long ago went something like this, "Whether it's hot or whether it's cold—the circus is coming weather or not!" And true it is. The clarion cry of the circus for over a hundred years has been "two shows daily—rain or shine" and that will be the case when the Mid America Circus comes to Dixon's Grant City Plaza for performances on Monday at 6 and 8 p.m.

Under the big top, all the elements of the circus that mom and dad remember from their youth will be seen. Clowns, trained animals, jugglers, elephants and comedy stars and artists on the rolling globe.

E. E. Cummings, the writer and philosopher, said "Damn everything but the circus. The one place left where you can buy happiness!"

Under auspices of Dixon Elks the Mid America Circus will bring clean, wholesome family entertainment to town at sensible family prices. The management of the circus is proud of the fact that the show they're bringing to Dixon is among the last few forms of the entertainment arts that have never had to undergo censorship. There are no X-rated circuses!

One of the owners of this newly formed circus is veteran Hollywood character actor Parley Baer, who along with Robert Tripp of Tulsa, Oklahoma, and John Strong of Upland, California, are reviving a real old-fashioned circus concept: big enough to be impressive and small enough to be intimately viewed by youngsters and oldsters alike.

Having undergone contemporary styling and modern innovations this is the type circus that played the highways and by-ways of America since before the Civil War.

Baer, who has more than 5,000 network radio shows to his credit (in the days when radio was the form of entertainment), 150 television shows and more than 100 motion pictures in his career, will appear with the circus as Ringmaster.

In spite of his more than 30 years in theatrical show-business, Baer is no newcomer to the world of the circus. With the Al G. Barnes Circus in 1936 as a press agent, and subsequent tours of duty with several other of America's largest circuses, Baer has combined a happy life of "doing the things I like best" between theatrical enterprises and the circus.

Parley Baer has such shows as NBC's Movie of the Week; Apple's Way; Man Hunter; the new Andy Griffith Show, Medical Center and many others to his 1974-75 credits. Prior to that he was the Mayor of Mayberry on the Andy Griffith Show for three years; with Ozzie and Harriet for seven years; running parts on the Lucy Show, the Addams Family; Bewitched, and many others.

Baer says of himself "I'm known from coast to coast as 'What's His Name'! You've probably never heard my name—but you'll recognize the kisser."

Currently seen in toothpaste commercials and heard as the voice of the head elf on cookie commercials, Baer says "I'm recognizable—but largely ignored—like street signs in your home town."

One final attempt made for reconciliation

EDITOR'S NOTE — The American colonists 200 years ago this month made one last attempt at reconciliation with Britain. But King George refused to even look at their petition.

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer
On the Fourth of July 200 years ago, the mention of independence was treason.

George Washington, the new commander of the Continental Army camped in Cambridge, Mass., still toasted King George III each night at his officers' mess.

In Philadelphia, delegates to the Second Continental Congress were drafting a plea to London to stop the fighting and to resolve the differences between the monarch and his subjects.

That July 4th in 1775 was still one long year before the colonists, finally fed up, adopted their Declaration of Independence.

It was a time of intense emotional travail for the people of the American colonies. They were still English, members of the greatest empire on earth, yet fighting with their parent country over money, pride and freedom.

They wanted liberty of a sort. But they hadn't yet decided how much they needed, and how they should seek it.

Over the next year, there were insults from London, a victory in Boston and a defeat in Quebec, as well as many minor skirmishes up and down the Atlantic Coast.

Together, they capped a series of annoyances that had been building for 15 years. And they were transforming comfortable British subjects into revolutionaries.

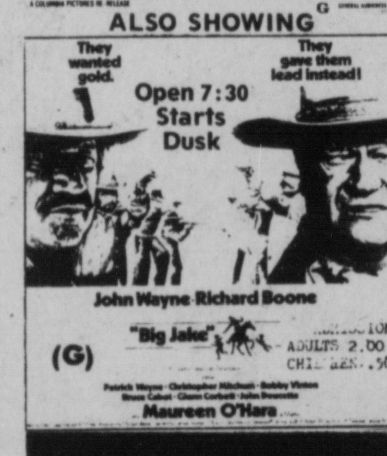

In Virginia, for instance, colonial gentlemen had met in Richmond on March 23 to discuss their problems. During an argument about whether the colony should raise a militia, Patrick Henry rose and said the British were sending soldiers to America to enslave the people.

His voice rose with emotion as he concluded: "Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God. I know not what course others may take; but as for me, give me liberty or give me death."

Many of the delegates were shocked by such extreme rhetoric.

When the Second Continental Congress convened in Philadelphia on May 10, most of the delegates were still in a compromising mood. Only a few, among them John and Samuel Adams and Benjamin Franklin, believed independence was the only way out.

However, the chance battles at Lexington and Concord in April accelerated events. A month later, Congress received word that two bold New Englanders, Benedict Arnold and Ethan Allen, had captured Ft. Ticonderoga from the British.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE E-606: Elaine B., aged 26, was a public school teacher in England.

But she also taught a class of a few little boys on the Sabbath at a frame church at the village.

On this particular cold, rainy Sunday in March she hesitated to get out of bed.

But her sense of duty and moral training made her arise and walk to the church.

Alas, there was only one little boy in her Sunday School class that morning.

"Is it really worth while?" she thought.

"For I already teach children five days per week; then must forego late sleeping on Sunday to come out here to this class and then find only one little boy present!"

She felt quite discouraged and pessimistic about the value of her donated time on Sunday mornings.

But do you know who that lone little boy was?

David Livingstone!

Who later opened up Africa and accomplished on a much vaster scale what Dr. Albert Schweitzer has done in this 20th Century!

So never give up in your moral efforts just because you don't have a large crowd!

It isn't quantity but quality that really counts, and as long as you can inspire even one child or adult to nobler action, you have passed along the religious influence of those who similarly "tagged" you in your own childhood.

For the continuation of moral society is based on what we might call the game of spiritual "tag."

Our mothers and Scout leaders, school teachers and dedicated clergymen have "tagged" us with our present allegiance to moral causes, good music, correct English and other noble attributes of our human brain.

So it is thus our obligation to "tag" as many of the oncoming crop of youth as possible with similar hunger for idealism and support of moral enterprises!

Jesus was the Greatest Teacher on Earth, yet He selected only 12 Apostles to be his special students in his traveling "Sunday School Class" that lasted three years.

One of them (Judas Iscariot) turned traitor and sold Him for 30 pieces of silver.

The Gospel writers don't say even one of the other 11 came to the infamous courtroom trial to defend Christ before Pilate!

Peter, the boldest of the 12, even denied Jesus three times on the tragic night of Christ's arrest.

And Peter was too fearful to resist the propagandized mobs at Calvary.

So Jesus, though He must have spoken to at least 300,000 people in His three-year ministry, didn't have even one sure-fire convert!

Thus, you faithful modern clergymen must not feel too downcast because you receive only a few new members on Palm Sunday on the basis of their Confession of Faith (Conversion).

Idealists must obtain enough self-elation at doing their job, to recompense them for their hard work and even ostracism from social groups!

"Start me with 10," runs the stirring marching song, "who are stouthearted men and I'll soon have you 10,000 more!"

For courage is almost as contagious as panic, and exerts a far greater long term influence!

"Marchon!" as the French

Marsellaise urges!

Donkey ball game amuses Dixonites

The players, fans, and even the donkeys, seemed to be having fun Thursday night at A.C. Bowers Field as a large crowd was treated to a donkey ball game. In the picture above, base runner Rick Shroyer struggles to stay on his mount while Tom Densmore, playing first base, has his beast matching the runner stride for stride.

Richard Boyer, Dixon High School principal, played right field on a donkey which had a mind of its own. The animal braced its feet and had to be bodily tugged along as Boyer struggled to get the ball, at the lower right. (Telegraph Photos)

Cardenal tangles with cops and then stars on the field

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Everybody loves a rogue and nobody knows that better than Jose Cardenal.

Cardenal, arrested Thursday night in an altercation with police at O'Hare International Airport, received two tremendous ovations Friday. First when he pinch batted in the ninth inning of the second game and again in the 11th when he delivered a bases-loaded single for a 2-1 victory and doubleheader sweep over the powerful Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Cubs captured the first game 6-1 behind the five hit pitching of Steve Stone.

Standing in front of his locker, which contained a sweatshirt that teammates stamped with the number 438097, Cardenal explained his feelings.

"The ovation was something wonderful," said Cardenal, whose incident with the police made the Friday morning papers. "I feel it right here in my heart. I let them down once, I no can do it twice. I hit, we win."

Cardenal, who came to the park with a taped wrist claiming police handcuffs had injured him, was sent up as a pinch batter in the ninth inning with two on and two out. But he lined out.

Andy Thornton tripled with one out in the 11th and the Pirates, with starter Jerry Reuss still on the hill, elected to walk the bases full and pitch to Cardenal.

"Who would have thought we could win two games from them with only half a lineup?" said Manager Jim Marshall. "I was glad Jose could swing. He told me his wrist hurt and I didn't use him until we became desperate."

Cardenal, who was released on bond after being charged with battery and resisting arrest, wasn't the only regular out of the lineup. Bill Madlock has a pulled back muscle and Rick Monday complained of a severe headache and was used only in the second game as a pinch runner.

"Good pitching always tires a team out," said Pittsburgh manager Danny Murtaugh.

Stone's fine performance in the first game in which he didn't allow a hit after the fourth inning, was more than matched by Geoff Zahn's performance in the nightcap.

Zahn gave up six hits and one unearned run in 10 innings. The victory, however, went to David Knowles, who pitched a hitless 11th before the Cubs scored to win.

The Pirates scored their only run in the first game on two-out singles by Al Oliver, Willie Stargell and Dave Parker. The Cubs tied it with an unearned run in the bottom of the first and broke the tie in the sixth when Champ Summers, Cardenal's last-minute replacement, doubled and scored on a single by Jerry Morales.

The Cubs wrapped it up in the eighth when they scored four times, including a pair of runs on a single by Stone.

Reuss, 9-6, scored the only Pirate run in the sixth inning of the nightcap.

Morrissey's bat paces Dukes in double victory

By JIM FOX
Telegraph Sports Writer
Mike Morrissey rifled a two-out bases-loaded single in the sixth inning to break a tie ballgame in leading the Dixon Dukes over the Newman Comets 6-4, in a Sauk Valley Conference game at Reynolds Field Thursday night. Dixon out-slugged Newman 19-9 in the nightcap of the twin bill, in a rain-shortened game.

Dixon touched the plate first in the conference contest as the Dukes sent a pair of runs across in the first frame. Dave Zinnen singled and scored on Morrissey's fourth home run of the season, a long shot over the left field fence.

Newman scored three times off Morrissey (5-0) in the second to take the lead. Chuck Ruiz walked and scored when Morrissey threw wildly to first on a Mike Kapp bunt. Two consecutive walks loaded the bases before Dave Casillas drilled a two-run single up the middle.

The Comets increased their lead with a lone run in the fourth on an RBI hit by Casillas. A great throw by left fielder Dan Kopacz cut down Rick Allen at the plate trying to score from second on the single.

Smart base-running by Matt Rhodes enabled the Dukes to pull within one run in the bottom of the fourth. Rhodes reached on a walk, stole second, went to third on a throwing error by the catcher and scampered home when the throw to third eluded the third baseman.

Gregg Mullery scored the tying run in the fifth as the swift centerfielder raced across on a sacrifice fly by Doug Devine. Mullery jarred the ball loose from Newman catcher Ruiz's glove with a hard slide that made the score 4-4.

In the sixth, Barry Barton and Stan Hack fled out to open the inning. With two outs, Kopacz singled, and Zinnen and Mullery walked to fill the bases. After fouling a few pitches off, Morrissey slashed a hard line-drive single off third baseman Mike McDonald's glove that chased Kopacz and Zinnen across with the lead runs.

Morrissey picked up the win and pitched a fine five-hitter in going all the way. The junior rightie displayed good slow stuff and, by mixing it with his hard fast ball, the Newman batters were kept off stride most of the game. Morrissey tanned five and allowed only one earned run, dropping his ERA to 1.87, the lowest on the Dukes pitching staff.

Dixon is now 4-3 in Sauk Valley Conference action while Newman drops to 1-6. Sterling still holds first place with a 5-0 mark, with Franklin Center (4-1) in second. Dixon, Oregon (1-1), Stillman Valley (3-4), Rochelle (1-4) and Newman follow in the standings.

The second game was more of a batting practice session than a tough pitchers' duel, as Dixon pounded Newman 19-9 in a four-inning rain-shortened contest. It would have been interesting to see the final score if the game had gone the full seven innings.

The first inning was a little past the believable state, as Newman jumped on Greg Dogwiler for five runs on four hits and sent 11 men to bat. Then Dixon came to bat and scored 10 times on nine hits, sending 15 batters to the plate. And that was just the first inning.

Newman had an RBI single by Dave Glassburn and a two-run hit by Kapp for three of its five first-frame runs. An infield error accounted for the other two tallies. John Kemp was called in to relieve Dogwiler in the inning.

Kopacz opened Dixon's first with a base hit and proceeded to steal second. Zinnen reached on a dropped third strike, and both runners scored on a wild pick-off throw by Newman pitcher Joe Hutton. Mullery doubled and Morrissey singled to put two runners on and no outs.

Vince Melendrez followed with a ground out that broke his 10-straight-hits streak. Melendrez was 3-4 on the night and has raised his once pitiful .090 average of two weeks past to a lusty .308.

Switch-hitter Devine, batting leftie, stroked a two-run triple to center to pull Dixon within a run. Rhodes brought the tying run across with a hit to right. Hack picked up his 11th RBI of the year with a single and the runs kept coming across.

Zinnen plated two with a double to left and Morrissey chased a pair home with a single. Morrissey had six RBIs in the two games, with four hits that boosted his average to .403.

Kemp fired the ball in his three-plus innings of work, fanning seven batters. Newman hit Kemp for four runs in the fourth, highlighted by Hutton's RBI triple to right. Glassburn and Boeson had run-scoring singles in the inning.

Dixon put two runs on the board in the second as Rhodes scored on a wild pitch and Zinnen chased Kopacz home on a base hit. The Dukes added six runs in the third as the marathon continued.

Barton, Kopacz and Morrissey collected RBIs as the three Dukes each walked with the bases loaded. Zinnen had an RBI ground out and Melendrez plated a pair with a hit to left center. Barton smashed a run-scoring single in the fourth for Dixon's 19th tally.

Dixon is 17-8 on the season and travel to Stillman Valley in a Sauk Valley Conference doubleheader today at 1 p.m. The Dukes meet Sterling Tuesday at Sterling and battle Rochelle Thursday at Reynolds Field, before facing Franklin Center Saturday in the opening round of action in the Dixon Invitational Tournament.

White Sox get taste of Mayberry's hot bat

By ROBERT MOORE
AP Sports Writer
KANSAS CITY (AP) — Opposing teams must be ready to give John Mayberry a saliva test.

Big John, No. 1 slugger for the Kansas City Royals, came within about 12 inches of tying the American League record for home run production in four games Friday night.

Mayberry blasted a solo homer in the first inning during the Royals' 3-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox and drove Ken Henderson to the 410-foot mark in center field in the eighth with another shot.

The home run came off Wilbur Wood and was Mayberry's 15th of the season and sixth in four games.

"I would have had another one if this blankety-blank park wasn't so big," said Mayberry. "I hit that ball pretty good. I've just had so-so luck with Wilbur Wood in the past. I think I've only hit three home runs off of him."

Mayberry, who has struggled to hit home runs most of the season, was asked if he's in the groove now.

"Well," Mayberry answered, "I guess you can say I've been pretty hot."

Mayberry's homer capped a two-run first inning. Earlier, George Brett tripled and scored on Hal McRae's sacrifice fly.

The law was hit or be hit Hunt ends painful career

NEW YORK — (NES) — Nobody this past spring training trained harder or queerer than Ron Hunt, major league record holder for being hit by most pitches in one season and one career.

In St. Petersburg, Fla., the St. Louis Cardinals' camp, the gritty utility infielder stepped into the batting cage, his burly body snuggling as close to the plate as possible, elbows in fact hunched over the plate. Batting practice pitcher throws.

Now, with Hunt hitting, the next sound is rarely the conventional smack or crack or pop. The sound is more likely a plunk. A plunk in the ribs, a plunk in the shoulder blades, a plunk in the back. This particular time, it was the elbow.

In the game later that day, he intercepted another pitch on the same elbow.

More: The Cardinals, like all teams, have a pitching machine named "Iron Mike," which is programmed to hurl balls toward the plate. "Iron Mike" hits nobody, other than Hunt.

"I guess he's got my number too—caught me about six times already," said Hunt, sitting with smudgy white uniform in the Cardinals' locker room at Al Lang Field.

But isn't it unusual, Hunt was asked, for "Mike" to bop anybody? "I don't think about it," Hunt said. "He's got his problems and I got mine."

Hunt says this with little emotion shown on his roundish, rowdyish, ruddy face — until after a silence and he gives a little crooked smile.

But shortly thereafter, the 34-year-old Hunt was informed by Manager Red Schoendienst, playing the Grim Reaper, that his place on the roster would be filled by a younger man. Hunt hadn't been this disturbed since the day when, as a Met rookie, he received at his apartment a bouquet of flowers after a good game — and sneezed for a week after. Rough Ron is allergic to blossoms.

He has now returned home to Wentzville, Mo., a bedroom community of St. Louis, to tend full time his sporting goods and liquor store. It appeared the end of a successful, if weird, career.

Playing for five teams in his 12 big league seasons, Hunt had been hit by 243 pitches; no one else in the whole history of baseball had ever been hit even 200 times.

Hunt holds another dubious record for being pinged most times in a season, 50, in 1971, breaking the record of 49 set by Hughie Jennings in 1896.

Hunt says he is proud of his records ("The only ones I got"), but apparently favors the latter. "It took 75 years for someone stupid enough to establish that record," he said.

As a leadoff man, his job was to get on base by hook or crook. It was in his rookie year that Hunt first saw the value of standing up to a hard ball that is traveling at nearly 100 miles an hour over a distance of 60 feet six inches. Hunt was then with the New York Mets, in 1963, during that team's notorious dog days.

At the end of his rope one day, Manager Casey Stengel offered fifty dollars to the first Met player to drive a runner in with the bases loaded by getting himself hit by a pitch.

Enter Hunt. Quickly, he was fifty bucks wealthier. And lo and behold he had discovered a veritable gold mine, hanging right there on his bones.

By 1971 he was practically flinging his blue-and-black body into the path of any flying missile he spied. On his record-shattering 50th hit, in fact, in 1971, Chicago Cub pitcher Milt Pappas argued that Hunt was struck by a strike, but to no avail.

Pappas then turned his venom on Hunt. He shouted, "I hope it hurt good."

Hunt said nothing. "I didn't want to add insult to injury," he recalled. He smiled that funny smile. "Besides, I don't talk to pitchers. Hell with 'em."

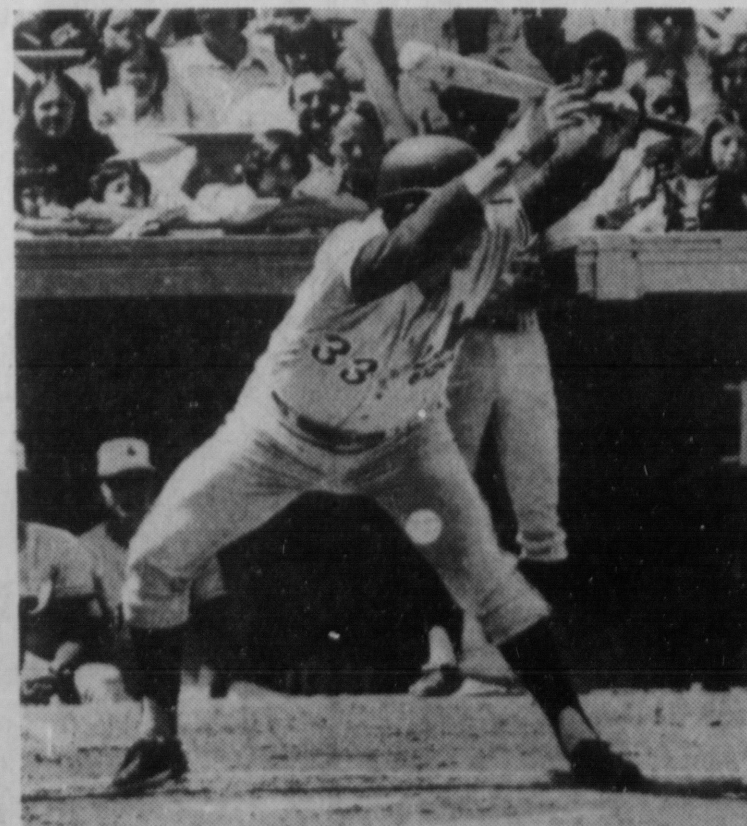

Hunt has earned two notable nicknames. One is "Scrap Iron." Scrap Iron, he explains, may not be the best stuff, but there's always a use for it. "Pippen" is his other nickname. "That's because dirt seems to attract itself to me," he said, with modest joy.

Although he did not hit the dirt to avoid pitches, Hunt sometimes did sink after being tagged. And he proudly relates that he's been whopped by the best—Koufax, Drysdale, Ryan, Bunning, Seaver, Gibson. "You name 'em," he said, "and I been hit by 'em."

He has been hurt by pitches, but never seriously enough to lay him up and out of the lineup. He has been hit in the head twice, but each time on the batting helmet. And one pitcher hit him in the hamstring the next-at-bat after he broke up the guy's no-hitter.

It was his way of clinging to a job he enjoyed, for some inexplicable reason, by demonstrating a most elementary law of survival: You either hit or you be hit.

Now it is done, and Ron Hunt can live happily ever after, nursing his lumpy memories.

RON HUNT: A gold mine hanging on his bones.

Johnson wins

ROCKFORD — Bob Johnson of Beloit, Wis., won the 20-lap Road-runner main event on Rockford Speedway's quarter-mile oval Friday night. Johnson's break came in the 18th lap when pack leader Dennis Hagedorn of Rockford hit a slicker spot in the number two corner sending his Camaro into the infield. Johnson took command and went in for the win followed by John Logan of Loves Park and Pat Buhmeyer of Beloit.

Defending Figure 8 champion Gary Head of Loves Park got his first win of the season in that event. Current point leader Frank Bridges of Rockford ran second. Hy Skool class point leader John Kraman of Rockford added to his lead by charging by Duane Zaugg of Rockford in the last lap to win his feature event.

O'Brien claims first

ROCKFORD — Veteran stock car driver Larry O'Brien of Harvard, won the 30-lap Late-model main event at Rockford Speedway Saturday night. Driving a '73 Camaro, O'Brien broke away from heavy traffic midway thru the race and opened up a lead that was never seriously challenged.

Willie Reints of Rockford pulled second place honors and Dana Czach of Chicago finished third. "Toby" Stuckey of Rockford won the late-model semi-feature and Bill Venturini of Chicago picked up his first trophy dash win of the season.

Steve Erickson of Roscoe, Ill., survived the Road-runner division "Midnite Ride of Paul Revere," a Road-runner feature event ran in total darkness, to score his first main event win of 1975.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

In November, 1775, Parliament passed the Prohibitory Act, which authorized a naval blockade of American ports and the forcible enlistment of American seamen into the Royal Navy. This act was to many colonists the final proof that Parliament wanted no reconciliation with the colonies. The World Almanac notes.

The Doctor Says:

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column about the man who injured his back while changing a tire. He said exercises irritated his back. Would he be able to swim? I had back trouble, and swimming cured my ailment. Isn't it a safe way to exercise?

DEAR READER — The answer depends on what is causing the back pain. Exercise of any form is sometimes not advisable in the presence of recent injuries. However, you are generally right. Swimming is excellent exercise.

I often recommend it for people who have problems with knees, ankles, hips or the back. It is one way many people can exercise without bearing the full weight of the body. It is also a good exercise to stretch the muscles and tendons to regain their full range of motion. Many joint and back pains are related or at least involve muscle spasm. Swimming helps stretch the muscles and relaxes the spasm.

Many of the swimming movements strengthen the abdomen which helps the back. Some people will need more specific exercises that involve more work for the abdominal muscles to provide good support to the back. Strong abdominal muscles help protect the back and prevent backache and minor back injuries.

DEAR DR. LAMB — A few weeks ago you had a column dealing with hemorrhoid. I am under the impression that you stated that the outer hemorrhoids could be taken care of in the doctor's office. I would like to know if this is done with a local or if the patient has to be put to sleep.

Two years ago I had a heart attack and was in the hospital for four months. My doctor does not want to do any surgery that requires putting me to sleep. He says that would be too dangerous, but something has to be done as the itching is terrific and is about to drive me crazy. He said he has never heard of it being done in a doctor's office. I would appreciate anything you can tell me about this problem.

DEAR READER — You have confused the treatment for an acute thrombosed hemorrhoid and the chronic problem. Doctors do not do a hemorrhoid repair in the office. They often do open and drain an acute thrombosed hemorrhoid of the external area in the office.

In this case a clot is formed in the vein of the hemorrhoid, and it can be painful. To relieve the immediate discomfort the top of the thrombosed hemorrhoid is cut off and the clot expelled. With the pressure removed, the person usually obtains considerable relief.

To do a proper hemorrhoid repair and remove the dilated veins is a fairly extensive procedure, at least more than most doctors would think of doing in the office.

Many patients who have had heart attacks subsequently have major surgery without problems. It depends on how well you are doing. Only your doctor knows that.

Internal power struggle looms in mine union

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A serious split in the reform leadership of the United Mine Workers threatens to plunge the union into a fierce internal power struggle.

The UMW's top three officers, who 2½ years ago threw out the corrupt regime of W.A. "Tony" Boyle in a rank-and-file revolt, are openly feuding.

Union sources fear the dispute will inflame factionalism within the 200,000-member organization and lead to more wildcat strikes which already have cost the nation five million tons in lost coal production this year.

With the top leaders feuding among themselves, union insiders say this leaves less time to devote to local problems, often resulting in unauthorized walkouts.

Simmering friction between President Arnold Miller and Vice President Mike Trbovich boiled over earlier this month when Trbovich attacked Miller's and Secretary-Treasurer Harry Patrick's financial management of the union.

In a memo to the UMW executive board, Trbovich criticized pay raises awarded staffers, saying "it appears the squeaky wheel got the grease." And he charged that at the rate Miller and Patrick were spending money, "this union will find itself in dire financial difficulty in the not too distant future."

Angered over the charges, Patrick responded with a six-page memo in which he defended financial policy. He accused Trbovich of making unsubstantiated "wild charges" that will damage the union's reputation and harm its organizing efforts.

"Your claim that the UMW faces 'dire financial difficulty' is totally false and a disservice to our membership," Patrick declared in the memo given to the 21-member board at its meeting here Wednesday. A copy was obtained by The Associated Press.

Some union insiders, including opponents of Miller, regard Trbovich's attack as politically motivated. "I think it's politics and it's personal," said one source. "It's been pretty clear that Mike wants to make a run for the presidency."

Trbovich has denied any political ambitions, saying that he intends to retire when his term ends in 1977. However, he also has said that "unforeseeable circumstances" could change his mind.

Hard feelings have existed between Miller and Trbovich ever since the union's 1972 election campaign when Trbovich, who expected to head the reform "Miners for Democracy" slate, was eased aside for Miller.

The reform ticket defeated Boyle, who later was convicted in the murder of insurgent leader Joseph M. "Jock" Yablonski and for misusing union funds for political contributions.
